Psalm 57:1

Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me,
for in you my soul takes refuge;
in the shadow of your wings I will take refuge,
until the destroying storms pass by.

Dear friends in Christ,

We are so grateful for God's protection through the storms of life. Our most recent, destructive storms could have injured many people. Many massive trees downed with the extreme wind conditions could have caused more damage. I understand how exhausted those of you have been cutting and hauling branches and trees must feel. You may even wonder where God was during all of this.

This reminds me of my summer as a camp counselor at Camp Vermilion near Cook, MN. Two of us counselors had teenagers from the Duluth area overnight at a primitive campsite. We had our usual campfire, devotions, songs, and prayers and were winding down for the night in our tents. I could hear the wind pick up and eventually, the sound of an on-coming train. Of course, there was no train in the woods, just the wind whipping through the pine needles. Wind, rain, thunder and lightning. Our teenagers were scared. I was too. We prayed really hard that night, sitting on our soaking wet sleeping bags. There was no sleeping. It was too loud, too wet, and too scary. I kept reassuring those kids under my care that God would take care of us.

Sometime during the night we heard voices and saw lights coming toward us. The Saint Louis County Rescue Squad had located us and had come to help us out of the woods.

The rain had stopped. With the flashlights we saw the devastation of the forest. Trees were down all around us toppled chaotically like pick-up- sticks. Over, under, through the downed trees and branches. My legs were scratched up, but we plowed back to the home camp.

Thankfully, we made it back, as did all the other campers that were out at various camp sites. We all gathered in the chapel to praise God for our safe return to camp. Not one person was injured beyond scratches. It could have been disastrous. Did I wonder where God was? ... Not once. I knew God sent the rescue squad, and I knew God got us all back safely. We practically blew the roof off the chapel with our thanks and praise.

I called my mom to tell her I was ok. She hadn't heard anything about a storm on Lake Vermilion so she wasn't worried. I was kinda disappointed because I was quite proud to have survived! The camp used the big trees that came down to build a retreat center, so all was not lost. I'll never forget being out in the woods, feeling responsible for those kids, and hearing the voices of the rescuers. God is always there in the hands and feet of the rescuers, the people that help us through the storms of our lives. Thanks and praise be to God!

I hope you have enjoyed our summer series journeying through the Old Testament Stories. I surely have. I hope you learned something, or maybe it piqued your interest to dig deeper into the Bible. The Bible is a living document. “Viva Vox Engelais.” Any time you read it, God can speak differently to you depending on your circumstance and what you need to hear. The Holy Spirit is actively working between the words on the page, or the Scripture you hear read, and your ears and your brain. A lot happens in that fuzzy space.

Luther wrote: “But what a fine lot of tender and pious children we are! In order that we might not have to study in the Scriptures and learn Christ there, we simply regard the entire Old Testament as of no account, as done for and no longer valid. Yet it alone bears the name of Holy Scripture. And the gospel should really not be something written, but a spoken word which brought forth the Scriptures, as Christ and the apostles have done. This is why Christ himself did not write anything but only spoke. He called his teaching not Scripture but gospel, meaning good news or a proclamation that is spread not by pen but by word of mouth. So, we go on and make the gospel into a law book, a teaching of commandments, changing Christ into a Moses, the One who would help us into simply an instructor”. (In Lull, p. 110)

Viva Vox Jesu!

Stewardship!

The Bible gives us much more robust explanations of stewardship beyond its characterization of certain roles. One of the best known examples juxtaposing good and bad stewardship is the parable of the talents. (Matthew 25: 14-28) Here, a man entrusts different amounts of money to three servants. The master scolds the servant who merely saved his bag of gold. Whereas the two who put their allotments to good and productive uses were praised and given more responsibility.

One take away from this parable is that stewardship should not be about giving only but doing. Members are part of the mission of the church, not merely funders of it. All giving should be about how you are contributing to God's work. And, you know: God LOVES cheerful giver. Whether you give a widow's mite or a large amount, do it with a generous heart.

So, what did we do with the money you shared so far this year?

Here are a few examples:

Operating expenses like office supplies, postage and publicity.

Congregational Life expenses like Easter Egg Hunt, new books for Grief Group, coffee & donuts.

Education expenses like baptism/first communion supplies, council retreat, Sunday School & Vacation Bible School.

Expenses such as our accounting firm, cleaning contract, fire alarm system, internet, insurance.

Utilities...everyone knows we need the heat and lights on, and our garbage disposed of.

We contribute (not tithing yet) a portion of our income to support the work of the Synod, which supports the ELCA and mission work.

Our property team has had expenses related to furnace, building and grounds maintenance.

Worship expenses include sheet music, communion essentials, music licenses and subscriptions.

Did you know we have to water our piano regularly?

Of course, we have to pay our staff.

These are just some of our expenses.

Why is it important for you to give regularly?

God's work is never done. You may be on vacation, but God isn't, and the work of the church continues.

This helps our operating cash outflow.

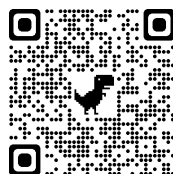

Even during the summer when you are not here as often, it is important to consistently contribute to the budget you passed.

This is made easy with our Vanco online giving. If you haven't signed up, give it a try. It is painless!
